

RESEARCH: Heritage Words (15 min)

JEWISH ENGLISH LEXICON

WORD OF THE WEEK

de carne

DEFINITION:

adj. Meaty / fleishig

EXAMPLE SENTENCE:

"Is this meal de carne?"

ETYMOLOGY:

Ladino: de karne (of meat)

WHO USES IT WITHIN ENGLISH:

Sephardi Jews

jel.jewish-languages.org

RESEARCH: Heritage Words (15 min)

WORD OF THE WEEK

eskapamiento bueno

DEFINITION:

May the end be good - said upon hearing of a pregnancy or before giving birth.

EXAMPLE SENTENCE:

"After Luna officially announced her pregnancy, her friends gathered around to say 'eskapamiento bueno.'"

ETYMOLOGY:

Ladino: The Judeo-Spanish verb "eskapar" means "to end / to finish." Combined with the adjective "bueno," the phrase means "a good end" or "a good finish" to the pregnancy.

WHO USES IT WITHIN ENGLISH:

Sephardi Jews

jel.jewish-languages.org

RESEARCH: Heritage Words (15 min)

WORD OF THE WEEK

eskapamiento bueno

DEFINITION:

May the end be good - said upon hearing of a pregnancy or before giving birth.

EXAMPLE SENTENCE:

"After Luna officially announced her pregnancy, her friends gathered around to say 'eskapamiento bueno.'"

ETYMOLOGY:

Ladino: The Judeo-Spanish verb "eskapar" means "to end / to finish." Combined with the adjective "bueno," the phrase means "a good end" or "a good finish" to the pregnancy.

WHO USES IT WITHIN ENGLISH:

Sephardi Jews

jel.jewish-languages.org