

Traditions That Ring a Bell

Listen carefully to tunes and prayers and match each track to the right ritual/event/community.

Event and Community	Track
Songs from Zeved Habat (welcoming ceremony for a baby girl), Egyptian tradition, 1990s
Bar Mitzvah ceremony at the Western Wall, Moroccan tradition, 1980 Boys celebrate the milestone of becoming Bar Mitzvah (literally: obligated to keep mitzvot) at the age of 13, and many read a portion of the Torah as part of the occasion.
Sounds from the "Cheider", Me'a Shearim 1975, studying Chumash The Cheider (literally: room) is the name for the classroom where young students (as early as ages 3-4) learn basic Jewish texts, often by repeating the teacher's words and reciting them.
Passover Seder, Kibbutz Yagur, 1952 Seder night is celebrated by Jews of all streams of Judaism worldwide. In secular kibbutzim the traditional haggadah was revised to reflect their ideology.
Ethiopian wedding ceremony (in Gez, Amharic and Hebrew), 2018 The ketubah (marriage agreement) is a central part of the Jewish wedding ceremony, and there is a requirement for witnesses to be present.
Children's songs, Kibbutz Ginosar, recorded in 1991
Brit Milah (circumcision ceremony), Sephardi tradition, 2006 In Jewish tradition it is customary to circumcise male infants at the age of eight days, as a symbol of the covenant between God and the Jewish people.
Learning the Hebrew alphabet with Mori (Yemenite teacher) at a Kutab (traditional school), recorded in 1991 The Yemenite pronunciation of the Hebrew letters is very unique and distinct, preserving ancient linguistic traditions that were lost in other Hebrew dialects.

Traditions That Ring a Bell

Answer Sheet

Event and Community	Track
Songs from Zeved Habat (welcoming ceremony for a baby girl), Egyptian tradition, 1990s	7
Bar Mitzvah ceremony at the Western Wall, Moroccan tradition, 1980 Boys celebrate the milestone of becoming Bar Mitzvah (literally: obligated to keep mitzvot) at the age of 13, and many read a portion of the Torah as part of the occasion.	4
Sounds from the "Cheider", Me'a Shearim 1975, studying Chumash The Cheider (literally: room) is the name for the classroom where young students (as early as ages 3-4) learn basic Jewish texts, often by repeating the teacher's words and reciting them.	8
Passover Seder, Kibbutz Yagur, 1952 Seder night is celebrated by Jews of all streams of Judaism worldwide. In secular kibbutzim the traditional haggadah was revised to reflect their ideology.	2
Ethiopian wedding ceremony (in Gez, Amharic and Hebrew), 2018 The ketubah (marriage agreement) is a central part of the Jewish wedding ceremony, and there is a requirement for witnesses to be present.	1
Children's songs, Kibbutz Ginosar, recorded in 1991	5
Brit Milah (circumcision ceremony), Sephardi tradition, 2006 In Jewish tradition it is customary to circumcise male infants at the age of eight days, as a symbol of the covenant between God and the Jewish people.	3
Learning the Hebrew alphabet with Mori (Yemenite teacher) at a Kutab (traditional school), recorded in 1991 The Yemenite pronunciation of the Hebrew letters is very unique and distinct, preserving ancient linguistic traditions that were lost in other Hebrew dialects.	6