

Systematic work applied systemically will bring change that will be sustainable

What Questions Should We Be Asking?

Systemic:

1. What is your vision for Hebrew for your school community? Is Hebrew included in your school's vision, mission or goals statement(s)?
2. How would you characterize the current status of Hebrew in your school? How does this compare to your vision?
3. Is Hebrew taught as a discreet subject? Is it prevalent in the school intentionally in any other way?
4. Have you led other change processes in your school? What were the key components to their success?

Systematic:

1. As a school, have you articulated expectations related to Hebrew language and culture for your graduates?
2. Do you have Hebrew learning goals articulated for your students?
3. Do you have assessments associated with those goals?

Sustainable:

1. Who is responsible and how deep is your bench in terms of leadership (or leadership pipeline) of the Hebrew program at your school?
2. What is the profile of your Hebrew teaching staff and their expertise and experience?
3. Is Hebrew valued by your board? Parents? Staff? Students?
